INDIANA COMMISSION for women

Our Mission

The Indiana Commission for Women (ICW) is a bipartisan state commission that exists to voice women's needs, concerns, and challenges; as well as celebrate their successes and contributions to Indiana.

Our Core Values

Identifying and recognizing the contributions made by Indiana women to their community, state, and nation.

Collaborating with other governmental agencies and outside organizations to assess the needs of women in all aspects of society, and combat discrimination of women.

Working for the advocacy of removing legal and social barriers for women.

Our Organization

The Board of Commissioners consists of fifteen members appointed by the Governor (7), the Speaker of the House of Representatives (2), the Senate President Pro Tempore (2), and the Indiana General Assembly (4), and supported by the executive director [IC 4-23-25-3 Sec. 3].

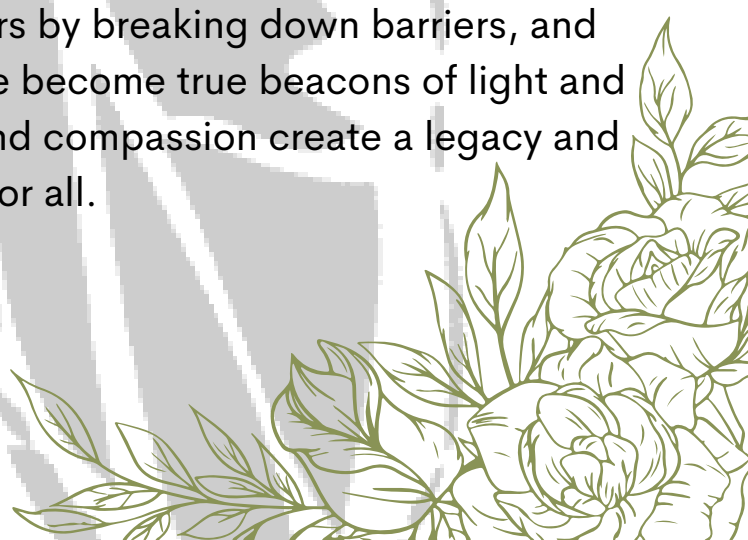

What are the Torchbearer Awards?

A statue charged to the Indiana Commission for Women (ICW) is the "identification and recognition of contributions made by Indiana women to their community, state, and nation." While there are several award programs, these awards are the only such event in which the State of Indiana recognizes and honors its finest natural resource – the women of Indiana.

The Torchbearer Awards were created in 2004 by the Board of Commissioners of the Indiana Commission for Women to honor the many achievements of Hoosier women. The Victory statue atop the Soldiers' and Sailor's Monument was selected to represent the Torchbearer Awards because it is symbolic of the character and the achievements of the women honored. The flame she holds represents the light these Torchbearers have brought to our state and their communities. The Torchbearer Awards serves as Indiana's most prestigious recognition of women in the state.

Torchbearer Award recipients are women who are pioneers in their industries or throughout their life, faced tough choices or obstacles, demonstrated character, made significant contributions to their communities, stepped forward as leaders by breaking down barriers, and made lasting legacies. These women have become true beacons of light and their stories of courage, perseverance, and compassion create a legacy and inspiration for all.
